THE SILLIMAN-MAGDOON CLASH IN MINER CASE

Great Interest Shown In It By Lawyers and Laymen.

FACTS FROM STENOGRAPHIC NOTES

HOW ACCUSATION WAS SPRUNG AND MANNER IN WHICH EXAMINATION WAS HELD.

Lofty Views That Actuated the Court and its Findings—The Attorneys Handled Each Other With Professional Gloves.

The recent clash between Mr. Silliman and Mr. Magdon in the hearing of the Dr. Miner divorce case has caused considerable discussion among laymen, and still more in the legal profession. The report in The Republican was a running long-hand account, but the details are what seem to be wanted. In consonance with this demand The Republican herewith presents the salient features of that examination, taken from the notes of the official stenographer, which shows the high and pure tone given to the matter by the court and the sentiments that actuated the contending attorneys:

The Charge Made.

Mr. Silliman: I wish to object again to this line of inquiry, if the court please. There is a matter that has never been gone into which perhaps ought to be gone into, ought to have been gone into in the direct examination. Mr. Magdon is the party suggesting these questions. I will say now that he came in a confidential capacity to this witness with his wife, and had a conversation with this witness. To what extent it went I do not know, but it was to obtain a reconciliation between the parties. I do not know how fully it was gone into. When these questions are all suggested by Mr. Magdon I cannot help but object, knowing of this conversation.

Mr. Magdon: I think that is about as unfair a statement as counsel could make. He did attempt to go into it with Mrs. Damon, and I thought he had abandoned it.

Mr. Silliman: I certainly intended to abandon it if it had not been for all these questions now asked. The Court: The court will say this. It is a fact that Mr. Magdon went to see Mrs. Miner, representing to her that he desired to act in the capacity of a peacemaker, and she, believing he occupied that position and no other, made a full statement of her case to him and her cause of complaint against the doctor, and thereafter Mr. Magdon accepted a retainer from Dr. Miner and became his attorney in this case against the plaintiff, Mrs. Miner, and used the information which he had acquired in this conversation to the disadvantage of Mrs. Miner and to the advantage of Dr. Miner, this court will, on proof of those facts, strike his name from the record as an attorney in this case and proceed to deal with him. If not so established to the satisfaction of the court, counsel for the plaintiff owes it to the court and to Mr. Magdon to make a frank apology.

Mr. Silliman: If the court please, with the court's permission, I would like to make a brief statement, and submit to such direction or order as the court has to make with regard to this matter. I will willingly drop this matter if I can do so by bare apology without going into it at all, although I feel that what I did was fully justified by the facts. I perhaps acted a little impetuously in calling the matter up at this time, but if I did so act I did it under the influences of the examination taking place. I did not wish it to take the serious turn the court has thrown it into. If I had anticipated that it was to be so serious I should not have brought the matter up as I did. With that explanation I submit to such direction as the court thinks best.

The Court: Counsel has stated he felt fully justified in making the observations he did. It is due to the court and to the defendant that the matter should be heard.

Mr. Silliman: I submit to that being done.

The Court: It made an impression on the mind of the court and the court wishes it disposed of now.

Mrs. Miner Examined. Cross-examination by Mr. Magdon: Q. Do you remember how long it was you were in the room with Mrs. Magdon before I came in?

A. Five or ten minutes.

Q. Not longer?

A. I don't think so.

Q. When I came in you began addressing the conversation to me, did you?

A. I spoke to you as you came in. I think you began to talk directly to me, and I did notice Mrs. Magdon by and by take up a book, some journal.

Q. Do you remember that you said about the very first thing that you ought not to talk about the divorce?

A. Yes, I did so. But I said, you have come as a friend?

Q. You remember you said when I first came in you ought not to talk about the divorce?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Because I am a friend of your husband's too?

A. But you didn't say that the very first thing until I committed myself.

Q. You said a moment ago that when I first came in you told me you ought not to talk about the divorce?

A. Not when you first came in.

Q. You said so a moment ago?

A. I may have said it, but I am sure I didn't say it immediately.

Q. But about the time you began to talk you told me that, did you not?

A. I told you that in the course of our conversation.

Plester Heavily Fined.

F. J. Mallet, the man who fired the blast at the Young block excavation Saturday, resulting in the runaway of Mrs. Widdifield's horse, was fined $100 in police court yesterday. The blast was not preceded by any warning to the people on Fort street. Mrs. Widdifield and Mrs. Vida were passing in a carriage. Their horse was frightened by the explosion and ran off, throwing the women into the street and smashing the carriage.

Mr. Mallet said in his own defense that it was a very small charge. The results being equivalent to a big charge, the judge fined him $100 and costs.

Kodak Finishing.

In the short time they have been in the business King Bros. have earned an enviable reputation in the finishing of kodak work.

To Mr. Cal Melvin, who has charge of this department, is due the credit of this success on account of his skill and careful attention to every detail.

It makes all the difference in the world whether care is taken to print a negative according to its merits or not. Many good films are lost through carelessness.

To be sure, it takes a little longer to be careful, but it is time well expended in view of the result.

The best results are obtained when Mr. Melvin develops as well as prints your films.
